

Where to now GUIDE

First step towards employing people with disabilities is a willingness to look for help. This guide will point you to resources to support your journey.

What I need	Where to go
Contacting Disability Employment Services You can choose which Disability Employment Services will help you to hire more people with disabilities.	SSI Disability Employment Services Disability Employment Service Provider Search
Getting your workplace ready Making your workplace ready could be as simple as putting posters about using inclusive language to knowing how to go about providing a workplace adjustment and who can help.	JobAccess Getting workplace ready toolkit Inclusive language Australian Network on Disability
Recruiting people with disabilities To support your recruitment process so it is more inclusive.	JobAccess Recruitment Guides Interviewing guide Australian Network on Disability
Checklists There are a number of checklists that can help you to make your business a more inclusive workplace for people with disabilities. Not all checklists will be suitable for all businesses, however these can help you think through your individual needs.	Zero Barriers Access checklist
Free training modules Building your awareness of inclusive practices can go a long way for making your business a more inclusive place to work. A free short online training can go a long way to establish inclusive culture within your business.	Disability Awareness E-Training Free Disability Awareness training Paid
Videos There are a number of interesting and fun videos that you can share with your staff, be it at team meetings or team lunches.	Business case for inclusion AND Awkward no more Create Your Future Jeremy the Dud
Intersectionality of diversities There is an added layer of barriers for people with disability who identify as being from a diverse cultural background or other diverse identities. For employers having practical ways to support these staff will make our workplace safer for people to be themselves and therefore foster staff loyalty and innovation.	NDCO Get ready kit Culture Ready Employable Q toolkit
Business toolkits Over the past few years a number of toolkits have been developed to support businesses work towards being more include across all areas, these contain tips, checklists, posters, case studies and other material to support businesses strive towards inclusive practices.	Centre for Intellectual Disability employer Toolkit JobAccess Employer Toolkit Ability Links NSW Business Toolkit

For further information please contact the NDIS LAC Partner in the community in your region

For Sydney and South Western Sydney please contact SSI LAC partner in the community
p 1800 960 975
e ssilac@ndis.gov.au

