New Beginnings Festival

Saturday 27 January 2024 ■ 3–10pm

Australian National Maritime Museum, Darling Harbour

New Beginnings Festival is the unique celebration of the creative work of diverse artists, performers and craftspeople including First Nations, refugee and migrant backgrounds. Now entering its eighth year, this one-day, family-friendly festival is a well-loved staple of the arts & culture calendar in Sydney and beyond.

This free one-day family-friendly event will once again liven up Darling Harbour at the Australian National Maritime Museum. Following its successful debut, the event will return for its second year as part of the Sydney Festival.

New Beginnings Festival is a celebration of hope, unity and new beginnings for refugees and people seeking asylum; a festival that aims to counter negative sentiments and encourage people to celebrate the creative contributions artists and communities bring to Australia – regardless of their background.
