

Leading change: Take action to keep multicultural families and communities safe

FREE training for community and faith leaders

Are you a community or faith leader supporting multicultural communities?

Our free online training will help you learn how to safely support people experiencing family, domestic and sexual violence in your community. This is an opportunity to strengthen your leadership and be a part of positive change in your community.

What you'll learn

- How to recognise signs of family, domestic and sexual violence (FDSV)
- Ways to respond with compassion, respect and safety
- Where to find specialist support services
- Skills to lead open, supportive conversations

Why do this training?

- It's flexible – online, self-paced (approx 3 hours)
- It's practical – includes videos, real-world examples, and useful tips
- It's relevant – tailored for multicultural and faith-based communities in Australia
- It's free – with certificate on completion
- Opportunity to join a learning circle to connect with other leaders (after completion)

Start the e-learning today – click this link or scan the QR code
or contact us:
fdsv.tecs@ssi.org.au

The TECS project is supported by the Australian Government Department of Social Services as part of the National Plan to End Violence Against Women and Children 2022-2032. The project is delivered by SSI in partnership with the Federation of Ethnic Communities' Councils of Australia (FECCA).

FECCA
Federation of Ethnic Communities' Councils of Australia

For equality of life.